PRESENTS...

SUNDAY IN BERLIN
with
NADINE DINTER

Last Sunday we were honored with a chance to hang out with the lovely Nadine Dinter, one of our favorite customers located in Germany! Nadine lived in NYC for a few years before moving to Berlin, where she now runs her own PR firm specializing in promoting photography institutions, photo fairs, and photographers. (You can find her on instagram over at @Nadine\_Dinter)

We strolled around Kreuzberg's Oberbaumbrücke and chatted about jewelry, life and all things magick... read on for more.

Tell us about your collection... what is your favorite Alex Streeter piece?

My first piece was the original "Angel Heart" ring, sporting a big amber stone and featuring two rams heads. When I was watching the movie "Angel Heart" many years ago, the phenomenal ring that Robert de Niro wore and the necklace on Charlotte Rampling caught my eye immediately. Thanks to Google, I could easily research its designer, and that's how I found about about Alex Streeter. This ring is such an iconic piece—from the jewelry point of view, from the movie point of view, and also because of the magic it radiates.

Where do you look for inspiration?
How do you find Magick in the everyday?

Wherever I go, I look for inspiration. Travel abroad, visiting the local flea market, or an excursion to a new art exhibition are always a source of inspiration and new ideas for me. For “everyday Magick” I have created my own little Wunderkammer, located at my office. I have my perfume collection there, as well as Japanese netsukes, semi-precious stones, small figurines, and flea market finds that bring positive energy to the work space.

Tell us a bit about how you wear your jewelry...
Does Jewelry hold a certain power or meaning for you?

I couldn't do without jewelry, to be honest. Whether I'm city hopping or fishing in Norway, I always wear at least some nice earrings and some solid rings. It's who I am; without jewelry, I feel naked. Most of the jewelry I buy when traveling, as a special memory from this or that trip. I have many different pieces to fit my different moods, to accessorize different outfits, styles, and stages in my life. It's all very personal and independent of the big fashion jewelry brands you can get everywhere. Instead, I prefer unique pieces, including vintage and handmade ones; and very special creations like those by Alex Streeter. Alex's work is unique in that he does not only create jewelry, but also a vision and world around the pieces he brings to life. It's more than something you just buy: it's a statement, a circle you join, and a little universe in itself that you can become part of.

For me as a collector, jewelry holds special meaning; I usually buy and wear it depending on what energy I want to add on a specific day or for a special event. I have certain pendants and rings with symbols like the pentagram, eye, or heart, which signify particular beliefs, powers, and energies.

Speaking of the Pentagram, what does that symbol mean to you?

The pentagram is very interesting for me, both symbolically and esthetically. There is also a very special power that emanates from

Describe Alex's work in 3 words...

It haunts me in the best way possible.
Magic. Enthralling. Must-have.
